Ike's Tax Bill Reaches Senate Floor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted late yesterday to send to the floor an omnibus tax revision bill carrying $1,477,000,000 in reductions for corporations and individuals in its first year of operation.

The measure is almost exactly in the form asked by President Eisenhower and carries practically all of the major provisions of the House bill. It is one of the must items on the administration's 1954 legislative program.

NO VOTES were recorded against the bill but Democratic committee members reserved the right to offer amendments on the floor to cut individual income taxes. The bill does not contain any general reductions in such levies.

Nearly all of the changes made by the Senate committee in the House bill in six weeks of secret voting were confirmed by the group in its final action yesterday. These added up to 107 million dollars more of tax reductions in the first year of operation of the bill than the $1,370,000,000 approved by the House.

However, the $1,477,000,000 of reductions would be offset in the initial year by $1,200,000,000 in additional revenue obtained from a one-year extension of the 52 percent corporation income tax rate. Without the extension, the rate would drop to 17 percent.

CHAIRMAN Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Finance Committee said the bill might come up on the floor late next week. The administration is pushing for quick action on the measure. Secretary of the Treasury Humphreys says that many business firms are holding up expansion or modernization plans, awaiting final action on the tax revision.

The bill carries a variety of benefits for corporations and individuals. Humphreys asserts these are evenly balanced.

Some Democrats have argued, however, that the measure is weighted unfairly with relief for big corporations and wealthy individuals.

THE DEMOCRATS never did offer, in committee consideration of the bill, their proposal for a steep income tax cut by an increase in personal exemptions.

Medical Staff To Quit Unless Haluska Leaves

SPANGLER (AP)—The entire medical staff of 16 doctors at Miners Hospital in this Cambria County community has threatened to resign July 15 unless the hospital's board of trustees fires the hospital administrator, State Sen. John Haluska.

The ultimatum, revealed yesterday, came about a week after Haluska said an unidentified member of the board suggested the nurses home at the hospital be turned over to Harry M. Hoxey of Dallas, Tex., for a cancer clinic. The hospital is discontinuing its nurses school.

No action was taken on the reported suggestion. Richard Todhunter Jr., chairman of the board of trustees, said he had not received the doctors' ultimatum and did not plan to call a special meeting. The board next meets July 8. Todhunter added that the hospital "which recently added a $800,000 addition, is too big and too important to our district to let a controversy wreck it."

Haluska, who entertained Hoxey recently, said he had no intention of resigning.

U.S. To Follow Independent Policy In Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles was reported yesterday to be ready to notify Britain and France that the United States intends to pursue a more independent policy in the strategic Middle East and Africa.

3,000,000 Men May Be Drafted Into Reserves

QUANTICO, VA. (AP)—The Defense Department's manpower chief presented yesterday a plan to draft men into the reserves to create a three-million-man pool of trained fighters ready to go in case of war.

John M. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, explained the plan to the nation's civilian and military defense leaders holding their annual meeting here on current and long-range strategy.

THE PROPOSAL seemed to be closely akin to universal military training, toward which Congress has been cool.

Hannah said the proposal has been handed to the White House and is under consideration by the National Security Council. But there is doubt that the present session of Congress will receive actual legislation on the controversial subject in time for any consideration before adjournment this summer.

Hannah noted that the current draft law is intended to revitalize the reserve program by requiring that each enlistee or inductee have periods of obligated reserve training after completion of active duty—a provision which lacks penalties for failure to comply.

"The trouble is, the plan doesn't work," Hannah said.

Of hundreds of thousands of veterans on the reserve list, only a few continue to train, he added.

The new proposal, as outlined by Hannah:

ONE—Men would be drafted to meet requirements of the reserve units of the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force.

TWO—Induction of men into this compulsory reserve "might well be done by lot by the local draft boards," selection being made at the time a man becomes liable for military service, at 18½ years.

THREE—There would be two categories of reservists:

(A). A "first line reserve" made up of individuals and units undergoing training and immediately available for duty in an emergency.

(B). The "selectively callable reserve," a pool of men with prior military experience whose special skills as technicians would be needed in sudden mobilization.

FOUR—In general, reserve draftees would get four months active duty training, then be obligated for reserve training for seven years and eight months—a total of eight years service.

Legislation also will be sought, said Hannah, to enforce the requirement that men take part in training with units to which they are assigned.

The plan "contemplates the continuation of selective service—the draft—for an indefinite period," Hannah said.

Democrats Suggest Action Against McCarthy's Staff; Senator Cries 'Dishonest'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Democrats in the McCarthy-Army controversy suggested yesterday a housecleaning may be in order for the staff of the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and McCarthy fired back that they were being "clever, dishonest and extremely dangerous to the country."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) was the Democrats' spokesman in the extra-inning quarrel that carried past the formal end of the 36-day televised inquiry into the row between McCarthy and officials of the Army.

McClellan stoked the fire at a morning news conference, saying:

ONE—The Eisenhower administration should consider at once a Justice Department inquiry to determine "if perjury has been committed" in the conflicting testimony at the hearings.

TWO—The administration should consider "the possibility of a crime having been committed" in connection with McCarthy's possession of a 24-page letter containing secret FBI information on Red infiltration of the Army.

THREE—The White House must decide "what action should be taken against the members of the executive branch of the government who were principals." The Army principals were Army Secretary Stevens, Army Counselor John Adams and, for a time, H. Struve Hensel.

FOUR—The Democrats will oppose any further hearings by the McCarthy subcommittee until it has dealt with what he described as the failure of two staff members to get security clearance to handle secret papers and the alleged efforts by staffers to intimidate senators during the hearings. McClellan called for a fast decision on whether an "immediate housecleaning" is needed.

Senators Symington (D-Mo.) and Jackson (D-Wash.) backed McClellan.

McCarthy came out fighting. Told of what they had said, he declared the Democrats have thereby "Notified everybody who considers working for the committee that he'll be smeared from hell to breakfast. It is clever, dishonest and extremely dangerous to the country."

HE SAID it looks like "a deliberate attack on the staff to immobilize" its work and in line with what he has called his critics' purpose "to keep us from exposing Communists."

"The Democrat party is panicked," McCarthy said, "when we start to expose some of the things that have been going on over the past 20 years, and they may well be."

Convention To Be Held Here In '55

STROUDSBURG will play host to the 1955 convention of the Four County Firemen's convention.

By a margin of six votes, the Stroudsburg Fire Department's invitation to convene here was approved by the delegates to the 1954 convention in Jim Thorpe, formerly East Mauch Chunk, yesterday. Hometown put in a strong bid for the convention.

MILLARD MARSH, chief of the Stroudsburg Fire Department, was elected president of the Four County Association. Other officers:

Memorial services honored 19 association members who died last year including the late Ernest K. Bond, Paul Roth and Russell B. Smith of Stroudsburg. Chaplain Krauss delivered the eulogy. He was assisted by Rev. Charles C. Seigle, St. Joseph's Catholic, and Rev. Henry Russell, St. John's Episcopal churches.

Lewis Meets With Miners, Sees Return

HAZLETON (AP)—John L. Lewis last night asked striking Panther Creek Valley miners to return to work Monday and expressed confidence they will follow his request.

Following a 2½ hour emergency meeting with the Valley General Mine Committee and leaders of Tamaqua Local 1571, Lewis issued a short statement disclosing his request.

He said: "I have asked the men in the district to return to work as of Monday. I am confident they will do so. That's all I have to say about the meeting."

Jack Miske, Tamaqua local president, said the 800 members of his local will meet today to consider Lewis' back-to-work demand. A mass meeting of all area miners called by the local for Sunday hangs in the balance, depending on the local's action today.

Reds Demand French Army Quit Indochina

GENEVA (AP)—France's new Premier Pierre Mendes-France will face a Communist demand that French troops pull out of Indochina as part of any armistice agreement when and if he comes to Geneva next week.

Red China's Chou En-lai and the Vietnamese Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong made this clear at a closed session of the Indochina conference yesterday. Both demanded that "all foreign troops" must be withdrawn simultaneously.

THIS COULD mean only French troops since Dong insisted there were no Vietnamese soldiers in Laos and Cambodia. There are only "resistance movements" in these two states, he said, describing them as "powerful facts."

The French have called these Red puppet regimes "phantoms." Yesterday's session appeared to add up the fact that the Communist position has not changed very much despite the hopes expressed in Western quarters after Chou's conciliatory speech of Wednesday.

Attacks Launched At Big Seaport, Air And Sea Base

By Sam Summerlin
TEGUCIGALPA, HONDURAS (AP)—An anti-Communist "liberation army" bombed and invaded Guatemala yesterday in a fiery bid to overthrow the Red-infiltrated government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman.

The invading forces, commanded by exiled Guatemalan Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, were reported battling last night at two seaports and two inland cities.

Fierce fighting was reported in progress between the invaders and Arbenz' troops at Puerto Barrios, the big east coast fruit shipping center, and San Jose, Pacific naval air base and commercial port.

Troops were landed after planes had bombed the two

FIGHTING was raging at the two inland towns of Retalhuleu, near the Mexican border, and Zapaca, near the Honduran border. These towns, too, were bombed, along with the capital city, before troops invaded, rebel spokesman said.

Washington reports said "serious" internal uprisings also had occurred at three places, including Puerto Barrios and Zapaca.

The outbreak of the long-brewing revolution to unseat a regime which the U. S. State Department feared was creating a beachhead for the Kremlin within short range of the Panama Canal, was announced here by a spokesman for Col. Castillo.

IN GUATEMALA, Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello also confirmed that "the battle for Guatemala" had broken out.

Col. Castillo long has been known here as the No. 1 exile in opposition to the Arbenz regime. Castillo himself apparently had gone to the front.

Castillo's spokesman said the attacks had been launched at:

SAN JOSE, Guatemala's biggest air and naval base.

GUATEMALA CITY, the capital.

PUERTO BARRIOS, the big fruit shipping port on the east coast.

ZAPACA, 75 miles northeast of Guatemala City.

RETALHULEU, near the Mexican border.

The Guatemalan ambassador, Amados Chinchillas said he had heard, too, that bombs dropped on Guatemala City smashed the presidential guard barracks, the office of the chief of armed forces, and army headquarters.

The State Department in Washington announced it had received reports of "serious uprisings" of Guatemalans in Puerto Barrios, Quetzaltenango, 70 miles west of Guatemala, and Zapaca, 75 miles east of Guatemala.

THE REBELS' spokesman indicated the first reports chiefly concerned bombing attacks, but he indicated ground and sea forces also were in motion by announcing that the first "invasion communique" would be issued later tonight.

The spokesman said Col. Castillo's "forces of liberation" had dropped fire bombs on the big gasoline storage depot at San Jose, on the Pacific Coast, which was used by the United States during World War II as a long range patrol bomber base, and at Retalhuleu and on targets in Guatemala City.

Roberto Alvarado Fuentes, Guatemalan Ambassador in Mexico City, declared, however, that bombs missed their targets at all these places.

U. S. Bids France Unite Against Reds

By John Hightower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower made a dramatic bid to the new government of France yesterday for "new discussions" on formation of a United Defense against Communist forces in Indochina. He also urged France to ratify the proposed European Defense Community "while the opportunity still exists."

In a letter to French President Rene Coty, which the White House released, Eisenhower offered in effect to meet with French leaders in the same intimate and informal way as he will be meeting with Britain's Sir Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden here next week.

HIS MESSAGE, announced about 24 hours after Pierre Mendes-France was chosen premier at Paris to succeed Joseph Laniel, appeared to contain both an offer of the closest possible cooperation with the new French regime and a warning that, at least so far as EDC is concerned, time is running out.

Secretary of State Dulles has repeatedly told the French that unless the European Defense Community treaty, under which West Germany would rearm as part of a West European military force, is ratified the United States will have to re-examine its policies.

SUCH A re-examination has in fact begun in the State Department to determine what defense plans may be feasible for Europe if EDC fails.

Kranendonk To Sing In East Borough

LEONARD KRANENDONK, baritone with the Fred Waring show, is to be the guest soloist during the summer Sunday morning worship services of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church. He will sing for the first time Sunday morning using as his two selections, "The Penitent" and "The Earth Is The Lord's."

Mr. Kranendonk, a resident of Shawnee, came to America from Rotterdam, Holland, with his family at the age of nine. They settled in Cosberg, Wis., a town of 700 population.

He first studied music in Holland, but gave no serious pursuit to voice training until a member of his church choir, Elsie Lemkuil, encouraged that study. Under scholarship he went with Madame Rose, a voice teacher in Milwaukee, who now has a studio in Hollywood with name stars as students.

LATER HE WON a four year scholarship at Wisconsin College of Music, and studied voice under Miss Adele Strohmeier, who is still on the faculty there. Later he was heard by radio columnist, Nick Kenney, of the New York Daily Mirror, who arranged an audition, and Mr. Kranendonk joined the Fred Waring Glee Club in 1939 and has been a "regular" ever since.

The Kranendonks' oldest son, Lt. Gerald Kranendonk, was killed in action in World War II. They have two other children, Robert, who now sings with the Pennsylvanians, and Barbara, and one grandchild.

In the morning worship tomorrow, Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of the church, will preach on the Father's Day theme, "The Measure of a Man." His text is from the First Psalm, "He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water."

FLOWERS WILL BE presented by the Strauser family in memory of husband and father, Boyd Strauser. The kindergarten will be maintained during the summer.

The first of the outdoor Sunday night services will be held at the home of Dr. Donald Corson, 10 Spangenberg Ave., East Stroudsburg. Transportation may be secured at the rear of the church at 6:30 p.m. for any who lack this convenience. The service will begin at 7 p.m.

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—Hosea 4:6-7:16

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

THE ONLY person mentioned by name in our lesson today is the prophet Hosea. (With the single exception of King Jereb of Assyria). One has to read the lesson carefully, for part of the Scripture records Hosea's own words, and some are those of the Lord speaking through His prophet.

Hosea was a tender-hearted man and a poet, as you will discover as you read his words. He had his own private troubles as he had married a woman named Gomer, who was constantly unfaithful to him, but he seems to have loved her even so.

While Amos lashes out in righteous anger at his sinful people, Hosea grieves over and pleads with them while pointing out the dreadful sins of which they are guilty and which were sure to result in dire punishment.

In the first verse assigned to our lesson, the Lord is speaking to the priests who, as God's servants, were supposed to set an example of piety and moral living, but were so corrupt that the people were apt to think that the priests could do the people could, too. "Like people, like priest," says the Lord.

"My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge; because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me; seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children."

What were these sins of Israel? Deceitfulness, faithlessness and idol worship.

"They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and elms, because the shadow thereof is good."

Every form of immorality seems to have been rampant in the kingdom. Hosea addresses the priests and the king fearlessly, thus:

"Hear ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Israel; and give ear, O house of the king: for judgment is toward you, because ye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net upon Tabor."

The kingdom of Judah was not without these same faults, and Hosea predicts "Judah also shall fall with them"—Israel.

If Israel or Ephraim repent too late, "They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the Lord; but they shall not find Him; He hath withdrawn Himself from them."

How could the peoples of Israel and Judah resist Hosea's plea for returning to the Lord and turning their backs on all the sins they had committed, when he pleaded:

Notice the reference to the Resurrection of Christ "the third day He will raise us up."

"O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away."

The Lord had done so much for His people, and after such ingratitude as they had shown, how could they be trusted even in their repentance?

"For I desired mercy, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings. But they like men have transgressed the covenant; there have they dealt treacherously against Me."

The Lord accuses even the priests of robbery and murder: "And as troops of robbers wait for a man, so the company of priests murder in the way by consent; for they commit lewdness, I have seen an horrible thing in the house of Israel; also, O Judah, He hath set an harvest for thee, when I returned the captivity of My people."

Alas, "Israel's continued stubborn persistence in sin, in spite of the warnings and callings of God, is likened to a foolish person whose hair is turning gray but he does not know it; to a silly dove without understanding. They are wholly occupied with eating and drinking and have no sense of shame of their sins and their rebelliousness toward God."

If one is ill, the sensible thing is to consult a physician that one may be healed. If one is conscious of moral illness and who isn't at times?—turn to God, and He will heal us. Even small children have consciences that tell them when they are doing wrong. This is the thing to emphasize in this lesson with both the younger classes and the older.

How much the world today needs to reread the Book of Hosea, to realize the faults that brought Israel and Judah to disaster, and to "turn to the Lord" again for help to overcome its evil.

Memory Verse—"I desired mercy, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings."—Hosea 6:6.

'Serviceman Of Day' Honored Each Sunday By Bulletin Of Grace Lutheran Congregation

EACH SUNDAY a serviceman of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, will be featured in the parish bulletin. Pastor W. F. Wunder inaugurated the idea on Pentecost Sunday in the hope that many pieces of mail would reach the "Serviceman of the Day" from members of the congregation.

Nothing is more welcome to men in the Armed Forces, the pastor said, than a letter from home. The latest complete mailing address is indicated in the bulletin for the young man named for each specific Sunday and Pastor Wunder urged that an avalanche of mail reach each man named during the week. More than forty men of the church are serving in the Armed Forces.

William Eyer, John S. Walck and Howard A. Kintner, II were the first three men named. All members of the parish in service will be featured on subsequent Sundays.

REV. JACOB S. KISTLER, pastor emeritus of Grace Church, will be in charge of the service at 11 a. m. Sunday in the parish he served for 42 years. His sermon theme will be "Are Christians Spared?"

Flowers will be placed by Miss Joyce E. Flyte in honor of the birthdays of her parents, Emmett H. Selwood in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Peck.

AT THE 7:30 p. m. vesper service the Methodist Youth Fellowship officers will be installed for the coming year. The Youth Choir of the church will offer two anthems. Albert Fregans will play three selections on the organ. The sermon topic of Rev. Stinson will be "Finding a Purpose."

PERSPECTIVE

What do you see, Sonny? A plane, streaking across the sky? A pony, galloping into the sunset? A sailboat, gliding across the lake? If I were to look into those glasses, I might see other things. For you are viewing the world with the eyes of youth . . . while mine is the sight of age.

I, too, can marvel at the speed of a plane, the grace of a pony, the beauty of a sailboat. But in all of them, I sense a force much greater than that of the man who pilots the plane, saddles the pony, or rigs the sail.

You are learning about that force when you go to Church each Sunday, and understanding it will be one of the greatest assets in your life. It will teach you to keep things in their proper perspective so that, when you get to be my age, though your sight may be dimmer you will see so much . . . so very much . . . more.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Contributing To Cause

Driving too fast for conditions is a perfectly sound legal principle in the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Code, but there are times when "the conditions" should not exist.

Case in point is the Park Avenue curve in South Stroudsburg, where accident after accident has happened year after year on a swing that is not only almost a right-angle turn, but is improperly banked.

That condition has existed ever since the highway was constructed in the middle 20's. Stroudsburg council finally won permission from the highway department to put a warning blinker system at the curve, but during the daylight hours it is not as effective as it is at night.

When a delegation visited Sect. of Highways E. L. Schmidt in Harrisburg last year to protest the Ninth & Main St. by-pass, Schmidt was asked what he would do with the curve if the state still used that route before cutting off to Ninth St.

His reply was it would be banked and widened to handle traffic off the long, steep grade of Foxtown Hill.

"And why wasn't it banked long ago to prevent these accidents?" asked Edward C. Hess, Stroudsburg borough engineer.

It appeared from Mr. Schmidt's reply that it was just one of those things that was never done.

This is not attempt to absolve the trucker who ripped off a service pole at the curve Wednesday and was fined for traveling too fast for conditions.

It is a charge that the State Highway Department creates "conditions" which should not be built into roads, and then permits them to exist as a contributory cause to accidents.

Think Twice

Tragedy stalked the local news scene yesterday with one highway fatality, two drownings and an accidental death in industry.

The death of Miss Mary Catherine McLaughlin, 14-year-old bicycle rider at Arlington Heights had a mixture of the elements of caution and lack of caution, according to the State Police investigation.

We cannot overlook the fact, however, that a solid white line which the State Highway Department has promised—but which has not yet been applied—would have had a salutary effect on keeping the elements of this accident ALL on the caution side.

Two drownings in the Delaware River point up the sheer folly of capering in a speed boat when you can't swim, or at least you can't swim expertly enough to compensate for what happened in this instance—a sharp turn and a capsized boat.

As for the industrial accident, a flailing crowbar caught in some machinery struck the victim on the head and inflicted fatal injuries. That happening certainly speaks for itself.

There are many who point up the human element in such deaths, and they are correct.

It is not enough for humans to THINK, apparently, they must THINK TWICE.

"I see where the French Cabinet has forced out Legerre in that vote on the monitored phone crisis."

"Yes, and Juatemala now looks caught between the May States and the Glia Ex-avations."

"I knew there could be trouble the minute somebody dug up that 5,000-year-old funeral ship of King Cheops."

"This can mean massive retaliation no matter whether or not Welch cross-examines if we have war do you think Geneva will come in on our side?"

It all depends on whether they will call more witnesses to see who brought in the bootleg arms or close the hearings with Fort Monmouth still in the hands of the Caucus Room Rebels."

"What's new in the Chou En-lai situation?"

"It's like dominoes. If one topples they will all topple, once we yield on those points of personal privilege."

"I think it is time we stopped worrying over side issues such as whether Private Schine spent all those week ends in the Delta Basin or worked for reciprocal trade like the rest of us did in the Oppenheimer case."

"How does Oppenheimer stand now anyhow, since Eden and Churchill are so split on his treatment?"

"I think General Oppenheimer did as well as Dienhenpu as anybody else could have done in view of the fact all manifestations of approval or disapproval were forbidden and the police were under instructions to escort from the room politely but firmly anybody who violated the rules."

"The whole global picture is awfully depressing. Let's talk of something more cheerful. Do you think Rubirosa and Zsa Zsa will get married despite the Caracas agreement?"

"Only if Babs Hutton doesn't raise a point of order and throw the whole case into an executive session during the noon recess."

"The Student Prince" is now in movies and brings back memories of the day when beer was so modestly priced that male quartettes could afford it in steins!!! Ben Hecht's new book, "A Child of the Century," could be retitled "The Candor Kid." . . . The French Government is so unstable that a safer and more dependable alliance can be formed with a hatch of batteries. . . . Senator Flanders on "Meet the Press" set back color television ten years. . . . Our summary of the Belmont would have read "High Gun did well on the draw, killed off opposition and triumphed in a blazing finish; Fishman let the big one get away; Porterhouse lacked juice." . . . Why does Jackie Gleason, with "The Honey-mooners," a terrific hit in TV, go back to the abysmal routines of Loudmouth Bratton, Reggie Van Gleason III and the dreary Mom Fletcher "commercials"? . . . It's the same as if Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez dropped "I Love Lucy" for some old-time vaudeville numbers. . . . A Russian chess team is here for a chess world series, and this affords one of the few opportunities to observe a Russian in a quiet mood. . . . E. Reds May Be Preparing To Strike Near Formosa

New Red Menace—Those recurring air and naval clashes around Formosa are ominously foreboding.

They may preface a Red siege of the Nationalist stronghold.

The Communists are giving every indication of preparing to seize a number of strategic islands off Formosa. In Red hands, they would be a serious menace.

That was the warning voiced by Major General William Chase, head of the U. S. Military Mission to Formosa, at a private meeting with House leaders. Also present was Admiral Arthur Radford, who summoned Chase to Washington for a first-hand report on these developments. Radford has long favored blockading the Chinese mainland.

Using a large map, Chase told the House leaders that the Reds have concentrated large forces opposite Formosa.

"They may attack any of the offshore islands at any time, especially the northern one at Tachen," said Chase. "We know definitely they are building up their troop strength in this area. The one deterrent factor is that they don't know what the U. S. Seventh Fleet will do. But they may undertake to test us. That's entirely possible."

"What is our position," asked Representative Walter Judd (R., Minn.).

"We are confident that we can deal with anything the Communists attempt," replied Chase. "Also, we feel the strategic value of continuing to support the Nationalists is obvious."

"An old China hand told me," continued Judd, "that if the Nationalists ever got to the Chinese mainland they would immediately go over to the Reds and lay down their arms. What do you think?"

"I'm confident they would remain loyal to Chiang Kai-shek," said Chase.

Representative Henderson Latham (D., Ga.) asked another question along this line.

"What about the Formosans," Latham inquired. "Do they have confidence in Chiang and his son?"

"Yes, very much so," insisted Chase. "And the confidence and respect of the Formosans is increasing. I don't claim the Nationalist government is 100 per cent American democracy; nothing like that. But it is much better than most governments in the Far East, and that's saying a great deal."

Social Whirl—Washington's notorious jungle heat is in full blast, but that isn't deterring the socialites. The so-called "little season" is in full swing, with as many as ten functions taking place on one day. Most of them are diplomatic shindigs with debutante coming-out parties a close second. . . . Washington males are beginning to outshine the women in sartorial hoopla. Morris Cafritz, millionaire realtor and husband of Mrs. Perla Mesta's most ambitious social rival, dazzled a cocktail party with an ensemble of bright orange trousers, a vivid tan coat and a plaid shirt.

At another affair, a British admiral appeared in a fiery red jacket and grey slacks.

The Army-McCarthy hearings have brought back into the public eye a once well-known and popular figure—Mrs. William E. Borah, widow of the famed Idaho Senator. She is a regular attendant at the sensational proceedings and is always given preferential treatment. . . . Newsmen have nicknamed Mrs. Ray Jenkins, wife of the probers' counsel, "Diamond Lil" because of her big diamond rings and gleaming diamond bracelet.

Aching back—Age sure makes a difference!

Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) ruefully admitted that during a discussion with Senator Frank Barrett (R., Wyo.), on the need for more funds for the national parks. Both are park champions and they were urging the Senate to vote more money for them.

"As one example of why that should be done," argued Barrett, "is the great need for more facilities so people won't have to sleep in their cars. Thousands of people come to the national parks and are unable to obtain sleeping accommodations for themselves and their children. They are being forced to sleep in cars because of this deficiency."

"The distinguished Senator from Wyoming," exclaimed Humphrey feelingly, "is looking at a living example of one who once enjoyed sleeping in his car years ago, but no more. Age has crept up on me and I no longer feel completely well in the morning if I have to sleep in a car."

"I know what you mean," said Barrett. "Sleeping in a car no longer has any attraction for me, either."

Try and Stop Me

In the days when the Brooklyn Dodgers were known as the "Daffiness Boys," Manager Wilbert Robinson had one pitcher who really took the cake. His name was Clyde "Pea Ridge" Day, self-declared hog calling champion of the universe. It was "Pea Ridge's" amiable custom to roar four or five innings of perfectly commonplace baseball, then suddenly, without warning, rear back on the pitching mound and give forth with a bellow that shook the underpinnings of Ebbets Field.

One day "Pea Ridge" boasted that his hog-calling proclivities had developed his chest to such a point he could tie a leather belt around it and snap it in two by expanding his lungs.

His teammates gathered round. Uncle Robbie adjusted the belt. "Pea Ridge" inhaled till he was blue in the face, then—bongo!—busted three ribs, and couldn't pitch again for Brooklyn for six weeks.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

McCarran Immunity Bill Would Permit Testimony Without Incrimination

Much is made of the superior methods of getting at subversion and espionage in Great Britain and Canada. The fact is not brought out that in those countries although a witness is warned that what he says may be used against him, he cannot plead the similar immunities to the Fifth Amendment as used in this country. The clause in the Fifth Amendment reading, "nor shall (a person) be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself," cannot be employed to safeguard a person from testifying against anyone else.

The objective in cases of subversion and espionage is not so much to punish the culprit as to discover the nature and danger of the subversion and espionage. The McCarran Immunity Bill seeks to rectify a defect in the Constitution arising from the nature of our enemy who employs subversion and infiltration as a technique of war. Under this Bill, a person could testify as to the facts concerning which he has knowledge without the peril of self-incrimination.

Under its provisions, if a witness, testifying before a Congressional committee, claimed the Fifth Amendment, he could be granted immunity, with the consent of the Attorney General or by a majority of one house of Congress. The witness would then be directed to testify without peril to himself. This measure would add many persons who were once involved in the Communist conspiracy but had broken with it. They usually fear that if they testify truthfully, they might incriminate themselves, particularly under the Smith Act. If a Congressional committee is more interested in a man's knowledge than in "getting" him, the McCarran Immunity Bill provides a way out of the dilemma for both the witness and the Congressional committee.

The National Lawyers Guild is opposed to the McCarran Immunity Bill. This same organization is opposed to what it calls "McCarthyism." Are we to infer that the National Lawyers Guild wishes no investigation of subversion or espionage except by such means as lead only to punishment of individuals but, not to an exposure of the nature and design of the subversion and espionage which is more important?

In its circular on the subject, the Guild says:

"There is no question that Congress can offer immunity in exchange for information. But this is very different from saying that if a witness refuses to accept the offer of immunity and will not testify voluntarily, he can constitutionally be punished for such refusal."

Actually, once the offer is made, in public, not as a coercive measure but by right of law, on what grounds can the witness refuse to aid the United States in discovering the nature of the subversion? The danger of self-incrimination has been removed.

What then is the witness' claim to silence? It can only be that he is still within the conspiracy or that he prefers the conspiracy to the United States.

The Guild further says:

"An immunity statute makes exoneration complete—as far as Federal prosecution is concerned—and thus more attractive to the ordinary criminal who, when suspected of a crime, is primarily interested in escaping punishment for it. To such criminals the chance to testify in return for immunity might be welcomed."

As regards the ordinary criminal, this would be correct if a Congressional subcommittee, at a hearing with one member constituting a quorum, could grant such immunity. But this is impossible under the McCarran Immunity Bill. The immunity can only be granted with the consent of the Attorney General or by a majority of the full Senate or the House of Representatives. This complete publicity is available; nothing can be done in secret or by corruption.

This Bill actually would make it possible for many ex-Communists and others who had made a record by a brush at subversion or espionage to "clear" themselves and to help their government without fear of personal involvement.

The real objection of the Guild is to the so-called informer. The word, informer, has an ugly connotation and when it is used, the intention is to humiliate. Has any citizen the right, in a time when our country is in peril, to refuse to give to his government whatever information he has?

Gus Roniger, the cop, who took killer John Roche to the station-house, because he didn't have a driver's license the passed a red light on a wrong - way street) is The Hero of the case—but another cop (a p r obationary officer) was the one who stopped Roche first. . . . The rookie cop had a chance at glory but kicked it away. . . . Police scuttletbutt says when he stopped the killer's car along came Patrolman Roniger who wondered if he could be of assistance. . . . The rookie (who might have been elevated on the spot to 3rd Grade Detective) reportedly shrugged it off with: "Oh the hell with it, I'm hungry" and left Roniger in charge while he feasted.

Roniger noticed a Daily Mirror sketch of the wanted killer on the back seat of the car. There was a strong resemblance to Roche. He asked Roche for his license. When Roche said: "No got," the cop said: "Then let us go to the station-house" where a checkup revealed the car was stolen. . . . A search disclosed the weapons used to rape-murder two young mid-town girls.

The chilling brutality of Roche's ghastly crimes are almost beyond comprehension. . . . During our interview with him we were gripped with a sense of revulsion—intensified by Roche's failure to exhibit the slightest compunction. . . . The cold depravity of the killer was as horrifying as it was unreal.

Roche killed easily because he is indifferent to death. . . . He once tried to burgle a funeral parlor (in the night) nonchalantly mending under the coffin and ghosts. . . . Instead of running in fear when he realized he had killed, Roche picked up the old lady (who came out of her bath and surprised him rifling her dresser-drawer) and neatly tucked her into bed. . . . Pulling the covers over her lifeless form (up to her chin) so "it would look like she was sleeping."

His murder got him $5.

Our interview with Roche noted the grotesque contrast of a wild streak of depravity within a "man" whose appearance is deceptively mild and average. . . . This bizarre contrast, this pervasiveness of nature is common among the most monstrous criminals. . . . Henri Landru terrified Paris during the 1930s. . . . He massacred women for over 5 years. . . . Within that period he murdered and mutilated about 200 victims. . . . Nevertheless, during this entire ghastly activity, Landru maintained a respectable home for his family. . . . Incredibly, this killer was a generous father and a thoughtful husband.

The average-looking Ruth Snyder was a source of somber irony for newsmen who covered the Snyder-Gray case. . . . Drama critic Alec Woollett stressed the point: "Ruth Snyder was so like the woman across the street that many an American husband was soon haunted by an unconfessed realization that she also bore an embarrassing resemblance to the woman across the breakfast table."

Ranyon's graphic description of the killers: "A chilly-looking blonde with frosty eyes and one of those marble, you-bet-you-will chins, and an inert, scare-drunk fellow that you couldn't mix among a hundred men as a dead setup for a blonde, or a shell game, or maybe a goldbrick."

Twisted egos are common to murderers. . . . The craving for attention that lurks in their maladjusted minds frequently explodes with a burst of criminal activity. . . . Bayard Peakes killed young Eileen Fahey about 18 months ago—merely to attract public attention.

We managed to get into the defective car taking him to Bellevue's Whacky Ward. . . . A 10-minute ride from Headquarters. . . . We assumed he thought we were another detective.

"It says in the paper," we told the killer, "that you shot her dead to get publicity for your thesis."

"That's right," was the bored retort.

"But why did you have to kill her?"

"To get my story on the front pages."

"That doesn't make sense," we humd.

"You're here, aren't you?" he blud'd back.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Today I received a letter from a leprechaun.

You may remember that I told you some time ago that I discovered a Kalpa-Tarou tree, which stands in my garden and gives me ideas whenever I need them. (Some folks call it the IMAGINATION tree.)

I never knew that a leprechaun lived in my tree, and particularly I did not know that it is a female leprechaun, when I always thought that all leprechauns are males.

You, who are from Ireland, probably know that the leprechaun is a little man, coming up to about your knees, who when he does not make shoes for you and all others who are kind to him, assists you in many other ways.

You can usually discover a leprechaun near you when you hear the faint tap of his hammer. Listen some time. A leprechaun may be right near you.

But this leprechaun who wrote me is a female one, who signs herself only "CIECHIE." She MUST live in that Kalpa-Tarou tree right out in my yard, because the letter is postmarked "Georgetown," which is the name of our own postoffice—and that certainly is proof enough.

Here is her letter:

"Did I ever hear of a Kalpa-Tarou tree. . . I will say and sure I have for I was born in one, many centuries ago. . . .

"I now live in that tree right opposite your study window. . . you can't see me, because I only come out when the moon is full. . . . when it is so bright it makes the earth shine like silver and on all the branches of the trees little diamonds glow. Did you know that I am the one who has cared for your Kalpa-Tarou tree, tended it with loving care so that all the fruit is sweet to feast your heart upon?"

"Do you know how I can do all this? Because I AM a leprechaun. Sometimes I'm small, sometimes I'm large, whatever size suits me at the time. I've often sat under the tree opposite your study window, with my roving eye on you, wondering whether you appreciated all I had done for you. . . but now I know. The reason I know is that one day while riding a bus on the shoulder of a passenger who needed my cheerful guidance after a long, arduous day) I read your column about the Kalpa-Tarou tree. I was delighted to learn that much of the charm of that tree has rubbed off on you. . . . however, will you forgive me if I say not QUITE all?"

"The one thing which saddens me is I am surprised you have not learned that money branches cannot EVER be grafted on the imagination tree! There wouldn't be any space for the branches are made of love; kindness; tolerance; consideration—and the fruit of these are joy; happiness, gaiety and laughter."

"This money that you humans use, in my opinion (and of course please bear in mind that I'm only a wee leprechaun), would only be a blight upon the Kalpa-Tarou tree."

"May I gently suggest that some night when the moon is bright, you walk into your lovely garden and taste the fruit on the tip-top branch of the Kalpa-Tarou tree. Your heart shall happier be for your mind shall need no more money. And in the meantime when I'm not doing under the tree, I'll be dancing on the keys of your typewriter. . . . please touch them gently. . . . ever. . . . ever so gently."

And a P. S. "Please observe that even tho' leprechauns are Irish, they can also be born anywhere else they wish."

"We're proud of this one. We call him Louis the Fourteenth."

THE FIRST BODY recovered from the Delaware River near Portland Thursday night was that of George Blaine, 26, Hackettstown, N. J. Photo above shows crew of rescue workers waiting on the dock at Tuscarora Inn for Blaine's body to be taken from rescue boat. Blaine and Charles Marth, 28, of Stockertown, Pa. were both drowned after their boat capsized in the river. A third man was rescued.

Second Body Is Recovered From River

PORTLAND — Body of the second drowning victim was recovered here early yesterday morning, four hours after an outboard motor boat capsized in the Delaware River. The third man in the boat was rescued by Lawrence Dolson, 44, owner of Tuscarora Inn.

Members of Belvidere, N. J., Ambulance Corps pulled 26-year-old Charles Blaine of Hackettstown, N. J., from the river after a diligent search. Earlier they recovered the body of Charles Marth, 28, of Stockertown. Both men were described as non-swimmers.

Saved from the tragedy was Carlton F. Brady, 34, of Washington, D. C. He told State police the accident happened because the boat "was cutting up and foiling around" in the boat. It capsized and sank four miles south of here near the resort hotel, Tuscarora Inn.

DOLSON told police he heard a racing motor, then saw the three men floundering in the water yelling for help. Dolson reached the scene in about four minutes and pulled Brady to safety. But Blaine and Marth disappeared beneath the water.

Certificates of death due to accidental drowning were issued by Clayton Horton of here, deputy Northampton County coroner.

Assisting in the investigation were Jesse Felker, Portland police chief, and State troopers Stanley T. Farnish and Joseph Skapik of the Bethlehem State police.

ALSO ASSISTING the Belvidere squad were rescue units from Phillipsburg, Hackettstown, Phillipsburg, Budd Lake and Portland Hook and Ladder Fire Co.

Marth was pronounced dead about 10 p. m. by Dr. Howard Ott of here. His body was recovered at 9:20 following the 8 p. m. mishap. Dr. Ott also pronounced Blaine dead after the Belvidere squad found the body.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy, Blaine attended Hackettstown schools and graduated from a Newark, N. J., high school. He was employed by a plumbing firm.

SURVIVING are his wife, three children, his parents and three sisters. Services will be held in Hackettstown Monday at 2 p. m.

Marth was born Nov. 11, 1925. He graduated from Nazareth High School and served with the U. S. Army during World War Two. He worked for the same firm as Blaine. His survivors include four brothers and two sisters. Funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in Nazareth.

Parade, Banquet To Close Convention

Memorial Rites Conducted For Fallen Marines

A PARADE this afternoon, followed by a banquet and military ball tonight, will conclude the ninth annual state convention of the Marine Corps League and Auxiliary which opened here Thursday.

The delegates took time out from their business meetings and shenanigans yesterday to pay tribute to fallen comrades.

Assembled around the Doughboy Monument in Courthouse Square, the former Marines heard Rev. Michael Halley, national chaplain, applaud the U. S. Marine Corps' record in service.

Father Halley, a Catholic priest with outstanding decorations for World Wars One and Two duty cited instances in the Pacific engagements of the second war when "Marines fell on beachheads, but continued to move forward, without relenting, carrying the American colors to a glorious climax."

INTRODUCED by Robert J. Bellino, of Scranton, convention chairman, Father Halley said "patriots have one firm belief—that of dying for God and country, and as Americans we should unite behind the flags of religion and the nation to uphold the freedom men have fought and died for."

Wreaths were placed at the monument during the service by Charles A. Hellyer, State Commandant, and Mrs. Lillian Hartman, Auxiliary president. Roll call of deceased members was read by Pat Cody, league adjutant, and Emma McCusky, Auxiliary chaplain.

Salvation Army Band of East Stroudsburg, directed by Capt. Charles Baker, played the National Anthem. Vocal selections were offered by Jane Lipe, Harold VanWyn and Lt. Charles Drummond, sounded taps and a color guard presented and retired colors. Three volleys of salutes were fired by a four-man firing squad to climax the program.

EARLIER in the day both the League and Auxiliary held separate business meetings.

William Heall, of McKeesport, was nominated to succeed Hellyer as State commandant. Others nominated, with election and installation set for this morning, were:

George Wescott, of West Chester, senior vice commandant; Pat Cody, of Industry, adjutant; Margaret Taylor, of Philadelphia, paymaster; Henry Addison, of Philadelphia, judge advocate; Kenneth Dilks, of Philadelphia, chaplain; Henry Parish, of Levittown, vice commandant, Southeast district; Robert DeCameo, of Uniontown, vice commandant, Southwest district; Anthony Siman, of Erie, vice commandant, Northwest district. No one was nominated from the Northeast district. Also selected as the convention commission were Len Richards, of Ardmore, and David Graybill, of Lancaster.

COMMANDANT Hellyer, in charge of the meeting, announced resolutions on legislation will be considered at today's final business meeting slated to begin at 9:30.

Mrs. Lillian Hartman, State Auxiliary president, conducted the ladies' meeting at which routine reports were submitted. This morning the Auxiliary will nominate, elect and install officers.

Highlights of this afternoon's festivities will be the parade beginning in East Stroudsburg at the high school at 2 p. m. Six divisions will participate and three musical aggregations will play.

Heading the marchers, an estimated 500 persons, will be Burgeses Hal H. Harris, Stroudsburg, and Jesse Flory, East Stroudsburg. A police escort of both boroughs will lead the line of march which terminates in Stroudsburg in front of convention headquarters, the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

JUDGES will be located on the hotel porch and color guard competition will occur there. After the parade firing squads will engage in competition in Courthouse Square.

Marshals for the parade will be Donald V. Dimmick, commandant of Monroe County detachment, Marine Corps League; Robert Shaw, past local commandant, and Harold Carlton, local convention chairman.

In line will be the Hackettstown, N. J., Drum and Bugle Corps; Wind Gap American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps and famed 53-piece Dutch Helwig Marine Corps band of Philadelphia, who will entertain with a concert on the Penn-Stroud porch at 12:15 p. m.

Festivities will wind up tonight with the ninth annual department banquet at 6:30, followed by the annual auxiliary ball at 9. Robert K. Christenberry, Shawnee resident and New York State boxing commissioner, will be toastmaster and Clyde Rankin, State official, will speak.

NATIONAL staff officers of the Military Order of Devil Dogs will be here tonight for a staff meeting.

Last night Marines conducted the initiations for Devil Dogs, the fun and honor society of the League, and put candidates through the degree of dog prior. A costume ball and floor show culminated festivities.

More than 500 different species of insects are found as pests in human homes.

Attorneys Propose School Teach Facts Of Communism

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Citizenship Committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. proposes that the nation's schools teach "the facts of the theory and practice of Communism" so that "Soviet poisons can be shown up for what they are to the impressionable young."

A resolution to that end is being presented by Judge Robert V. Bolger, of the Philadelphia Orphans Court, at the association's annual meeting in Spring Lake, N. J., June 21-24. Judge Bolger is chairman of the association's Standing Committee on American Citizenship.

The resolution asserts that "Enlightened citizenship requires intelligent understanding of world problems, free discussion and courageous thinking."

The association, if it adopts the resolution, would "stand ready to implement its purpose by aiding in the preparation of suitable material and otherwise through its Standing Committee on American Citizenship."

Judge Bolger said he feels sure the association will adopt the resolution.

Bullet Injures Herman Philips In Accident

HERMAN PHILIPS, 66-year-old janitor for First Stroudsburg National Bank, accidentally shot himself in the hand Thursday afternoon while inspecting a pistol in the bank.

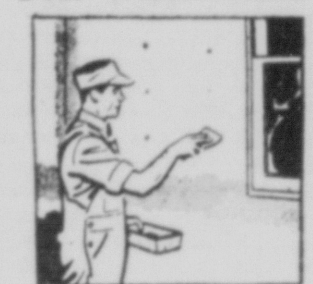

According to Stroudsburg police, Philips was helping move furniture into the newly renovated bank quarters when the accident occurred. A .32 caliber pistol reportedly owned by bank president Frank Stackhouse was in one of the drawers. Philips said he picked up the gun for inspection because he owned one like it, and the pistol discharged.

TAKEN TO the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, the resident of 825 Monroe St. was treated by Dr. M. H. Spinner who filed the accident report with police. After treatment he was released and returned home.

The bullet went through the fleshy part of Philips' left hand between the first and second fingers, according to police. The projectile then passed through a wooden door in the office and went into the lobby. No one was near at the time, police said.

Dr. Harold S. Pond Jr. will be out of town June 17 through July 4, inclusive.—Adv.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Now I've really done it — and even while it was done innocently, I've brought down upon my head a noisy storm of protest that proves Monroe Countians to be avid readers, not only of really fine literature but of newspaper columns such as "The Wyckoff Shopper."

Quite innocently, I remarked the other day that Fran Meredith was probably spending his vacation reading such books as "The Reason Why," a record of "major developments in our country's history." Inasmuch as the book was so highly rated, I said, I'd ordered a copy for Father's Day giving. The result is a series of letters and several telephone calls to the effect that, if my husband is interested in American history, he certainly will not be interested in "The Reason Why," and why wasn't I more careful about making a selection?

To quote from one writer, "You have given me so many correct steers on Wyckoff merchandise, I am sorry you've made such a mistake in spending your own money." And from another, a man, the word is, "My dear, if it were to present me with a book dealing with the Light Brigade when I expected to read something of the glorious south and the Civil War, I would divorce you at once." Another good-natured reader, who prefers to be anonymous, forwards a book review on glossy paper, with a note saying, "This may spread a little Light (Brigade) on the subject." Still another, dashes across the top of the New York Herald-Tribune review a reproachful, "Don't you think you should check a book like this before mentioning it?"

My golly, yes, I do, Mrs. Anonymous — particularly after all this ruckus. But, just between us, I thought I had. I was as misinformed as you, or I certainly wouldn't have ordered it in the beginning. The man to whom I'm presenting it, would far rather read about the Boston Tea Party and the landing of the Pilgrims, than to ponder over the Crimean War.

Nevertheless, I feel that "The Reason Why" will be a distinctive addition to our library. Mrs. Cecil Woodham-Smith, my adviser, has done a brilliant job, answering the question "Who was to blame for the twenty minutes in which Russian artillery and riflemen wiped out all but a handful of the 700 horsemen involved in one of the most tragic blunders of all time?" The author of the illustrated, 293 page volume published by McGraw-Hill, tells in superb style the various misjudgments that contributed to the Brigade's destruction, also sketching in the background of the various officers, who were the product of "an irrational system of promotion," and fell far short of the demands they should have been able to take in stride.

This is a book worth reading all right. It will not only impress us but will look impressive on the shelves. But the fact remains that it isn't about American history at all, and I'm sorry indeed to have misled anyone. As Mrs. A. W. so graciously comments, "I never write letters to anyone it seems, unless they've done something to annoy me. This is true of many people. This time you have annoyed me and I'm saying so. But forgive me—I've read The Shopper for many months and enjoyed it tremendously. I'm sensible enough to be ashamed that that was never mentioned."

Now what can I do next, to keep the mail coming in?

Waring Workshop Opens Sunday At Water Gap; 600 Educators Expected To Attend Sessions

THE 1954 WARING Music Workshop opens Sunday, according to Dr. Earl Willhoite, dean of instruction.

All sessions will be held in the Waring Enterprises buildings at Delaware Water Gap. The choral workshop will run five consecutive weeks.

More than 600 music educators from all sections of the U. S. are expected to attend the sessions, workshop officials estimate. A second workshop series—devoted entirely to piano—will be given this year.

ATTENDING THE latter sessions will be Dr. Howard Hansen of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Hansen is one of America's better known composers.

He will attend the piano workshop sessions and the closing week of the choral workshop as an observer and occasional contributor, not as an instructor, officials said.

Each session of the workshop in choral music opens on Sunday night. A total of 40 hours of "intensive instruction in choral techniques" will be given during each session, according to Dr. Willhoite.

INCLUDED IN THE 40-hour period of instruction are lectures and demonstrations of staging techniques, audio-visual techniques as well as actual singing and working together, officials said.

The staff for the workshop sessions will include Dr. Willhoite; Fred Waring as the chief instructor; Harry Simpson and Hawley Ades, in the field of choral arranging; Jack Best of the Waring staff and Prof. John Raymond of Lafayette College.

Also working during the sessions will be numerous other members of the Waring Pennsylvania group, officials said.

Ernest Farmer is business manager of the workshop series.

Survey Made Of County

STATE COLLEGE.—Monroe County is one of the most popular vacationlands in the State, the Bureau of Business Research at the Pennsylvania State University points out in a statistical abstract on the county issued yesterday.

While agriculture is limited because of the Pocono Mountains, which extend over a considerable part of the county and rise to elevations of more than 2,000 feet, there are manufacturing industries, including metal and metal products, textiles and textile products, and paper and paper industries.

THE manufacturer of leather for a long time was a prominent industry in Monroe County, the bureau notes, the oldest tannery having been erected by the Stroud brothers in 1822, then in Northampton County.

With water power a natural advantage to the county, flouring mills and woolen mills have been an appropriate part of its industrial life. The manufacture of silk also has been a principal industry since 1885 when a silk mill was located in East Stroudsburg.

The study, which is one of a series done by the bureau, provides detailed statistical data on industries, business, utilities, schools, and civic agencies of Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Monroe County.

RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Golf's greatest show, the National Open, is everything they say it is—and probably more. There's more color than in a paint factory, more golfing ability than in a text book and more spectators than it is wise trying to consider. There is profound excitement from the moment the first entry drives in the morning until the final threesome finishes off the 18th hole in the late evening hours. It is both the World Series and Army-Navy game of golf. It's in a class by itself.

It's almost impossible to believe that virtually everybody that is anybody in the professional tournament world is present. It's also tough to believe that any golf course could be made as tough as Baltusrol, Springfield, N.J., where the open is now being held. The fairways are narrower than some people's minds, while the greens have more rolls than an all-night dice game. The pins are tucked away in a remote corner of each green, where they are well protected by traps.

There is more sand on this course than in Death Valley—and virtually all traps have proven extremely tough for the big and little names alike. The course is constantly changing. The minute the last threesome left the first hole on Thursday, club employees began moving the fairway and green for yesterday. The pin was changed, traps repaired and everything put in tip-top shape for second day action. Course employees take ball marks out of the green and rake all sand traps on each hole after one threesome finishes and before the next group is allowed to play.

Jack Cuttle, Pocono Manor's veteran resident pro, followed Gene Littler, youthful pro from Thunderbird Country Club, Palm Springs, California, for one hole and then named the former amateur star as the player to beat this year. Jack's judgement was greatly upheld yesterday when Littler shot to the top of the field by a margin of two strokes. The affair is truly great, featuring the greatest golfers in the world such as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Billy Joe Patton, Bobby Locke, the colorful character from South Africa; Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret and a hundred others.

It made one feel extremely good to see such guys as "Skip" Alexander, the guy they said would never play golf again, and Ed Furgol, the pro with one arm 10 inches shorter than the other, in their battling the best the Open had to offer. Alexander is the pro who managed to escape an airplane crash alive a few years back, but was so badly burned about the arms and shoulders that it was announced his golf days were over. "Skip" was in there the first two days, playing in a threesome with Hogan and before the largest gallery on the course.

But to this reporter the finest thing in the tournament thus far was the fine 73, three strokes over par, turned in by Shawnee's Al Nelson yesterday. Al skied to an 87 on opening day and was a pretty discouraged lad. He didn't have a single excuse to offer, but rather had thought that he wasn't enough golfer for this tournament. But yesterday he proved to the world, and most important proved to himself, that he's one of the rising young stars in the game, one that we'll hear plenty about in the future. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Among the Monroe County residents on hand as spectators Thursday were Jack Cuttle, resident pro at Pocono Manor, Mrs. Cuttle and Mrs. Gary Carpenter, both of Pocono Manor; Rocco Coco, long connected with the pro shop at Shawnee; Max Beaver and Leonard "Bull" Perfetti, East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. John DeSanto, Pocono Summit, and Bill Karshner, Stroudsburg, Ronnie Ward, an assistant pro at Shawnee, went down to visit Nelson Thursday night.

Local residents on hand for the second round yesterday were Harry Obitz, head pro at Shawnee, and Mrs. Obitz, plus Fred Waring, president of Shawnee, and Fred Jr. Dick Farley, assistant pro at Shawnee, was also on hand. The list also included Mary Baldwin, Less Aboloff, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bixler Jr., Bill Wilson and Larry Levy, all of Stroudsburg; Irving "Rich" Sommers, Max Avery and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hoss, East Stroudsburg. There were also many summer cottagers present from Pocono Manor, Shawnee, Buck Hill and Skytop.

Stroudsburg National Bank Downs Colonial Diner

Late Surge Decides Little League Issue

First Stroudsburg National Bank finished in championship style last night to score a 7-5 victory over Colonial Diner in a Stroudsburg Little League baseball game, played on the circuit's official field.

Colonial Diner scored one run in the second inning to even the count at 1-1, after the Bankers opened with a marker in the first. The Dinermen went into a 3-1 lead with two more tallies in the third, but couldn't make it stand up in the face of a strong finish by the Bankers.

National Bank sluggers picked up two markers in the fifth to even the score and then went on to win with four markers in the sixth.

Colonial Diner scored twice in the home half of the sixth, but the rally wasn't good enough to change the complexion of the game.

The Bankers held an 8-4 edge in hits and each team committed three errors.

Cards Blank Giants, 5-0

New York (AP)—Harvey Haddix of the St. Louis Cardinals pitched his third straight shutout last night, taming the New York Giants on four singles for a 5-0 victory. It broke up the Giants' six-game winning streak.

The little lefthander struck out seven and walked only two in winning his 11th game, most in the majors. It was his ninth straight triumph and his sixth consecutive complete game.

The loss cut the Giants' first-place margin over Brooklyn to a single game.

Fast Start
The Cardinals pounded Sal Maglie, and "Windy" McCall for 13 hits before Alex Konikowski came on in the ninth to retire the side in order, the only inning in which the Cardinals didn't have a base runner.

Rip Repulski put the Giants behind at the very start as he laced one of Maglie's offerings into the upper left field seats for a homer. Doubles by Haddix and "Red" Schoendienst produced another St. Louis run in the second and in the fourth the Giants' luck ran out.

Charles, 'Rocky' May Meet Again

New York (AP)—Plans for a September rematch between heavyweight champion "Rocky" Marciano and Ezzard Charles began to take shape yesterday after New York State Athletic Commission physicians found that the battered Charles escaped serious injury in his courageous title bid against Marciano Thursday night.

No Breaks
Fears that Charles might have taken too bad a beating to be available for the doctor, who said X-rays showed no broken bones.

East Stroudsburg National Bank Trips Methodists, 10-8

East Stroudsburg National Bank scored in all but one inning last night, including a big five-run outburst in the third, to score a 10-8 decision over the Methodists in an East Stroudsburg Little League baseball game last night.

The contest was held on the circuit's official field.

National Bank missed scoring in the second and sixth innings, while the Methodists missed plating at least one run only in the first and sixth rounds.

The Bankers overcame a one-run deficit with their five-run burst and held the upper hand the remainder of the distance.

Ken Ladlee homered in a winning cauld.

Charles, Bachman Renew Hot Feud At Stroudsburg Speedway

Harry Charles, Easton, and Bill Bachman, Bangor, are slated to renew their stock car racing rivalry that is waxing hotter each week at Stroudsburg Speedway tonight, as a large field of cars battle for the top prize.

The first of five events is scheduled to get underway promptly at 8:30 p.m.

Charles is the only driver to win two feature events at Stroudsburg Speedway this season and each time Bachman has finished second. Bill has been one of the most consistent second place finishers at Monroe County's only active track this season and threatens to break into the winning column on any given program.

Dale Johnson, East Stroudsburg; Charley Praetorius, Snyderville, and John "Miner" Rinker, Scotrun, will give tonight's expected large field a Monroe County flavor.

Other well known drivers expected to campaign are Ken Wismer, Easton; Joe Ryan, Oxford, N. J.; Ray Fleming, Bethlehem; Chet Fehr, Easton; Chris Yarn Horn, Belvidere, N. J.; Norm Pleiss, Easton, and a host of others.

There will be three qualifying heats of 10 laps each, a consolation grind of 12 laps and there will be a feature event of 25 laps.

Dodgers Bounce Cubs, 6-3
Brooklyn (AP)—Gil Hodges drove in four runs with two homers and a sacrifice fly as the Brooklyn Dodgers whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-3 last night. Don Newcombe won his fourth game and his 10th straight over the Cubs who never have beaten him.

The Cubs got only five hits off the big righthander, who hadn't pitched a complete game since May 7. He struck out eight.

Company
Hodges had home run company. Don Hoak hit one for the Dodgers and Ralph Kiner and Dee Foney connected for the Cubs, all with the bases empty.

The Cubs kept pace with Brooklyn until Hoak hit his home run in the sixth to give the Dodgers a 4-3 lead.

Little Takes Over Lead After Two Rounds Of Play In National Open; Hogan Ties For Second

Springfield, N. J. (AP)—The Billy Joe Patton bubble burst yesterday and a plucky freshman pro from the Pacific Coast, Gene Littler, shot into the halfway lead of the National Open golf championship with a sub-par score of 139.

Littler, 1933 U. S. amateur champion from San Diego, Calif., rivaled a one-under-par 69 to his opening 70 and became the only player in the star-studded field to break Baltusrol's par for the two rounds. Par for the 7,027-yard layout is 70.

He took a two-stroke lead over defending champion Ben Hogan, who complains his game has gone completely sour, and Ed Furgol of St. Louis, whose left arm is 10 inches shorter than his right. Each shot 70 yesterday for 141.

Patton, the brash, wisecracking lumberman from Morgantown, N. C., the first amateur to lead the first round of this blue ribbon classic since Bobby Jones in 1923, could add no better than a 76, six over par, to Thursday's dramatic 69.

Deadlocked
This gave him a total of 145 and placed him in a tie at that figure with Sam Snead, who experienced a mild blowup of his own.

Snead's always unpredictable putter failed him completely on the finishing holes where he took successive bogeys on the 14th, 15th and 16th. He missed three putts of under five feet.

The final two rounds are scheduled today and Hogan, the favorite who is seeking his fifth Open championship, remarked glumly:

"I'm terrible. I'm awful. I've gotta do something before tomorrow. The way I'm scrambling I won't be able to hold up."

Snead said, "I putted like both my doggone arms was broke."

Tied at 143 were two former champions, Lloyd Mangrum and Cary Middlecoff, and two of the country's up-and-coming young pros, Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and A. Menger of Spokane, Wash., now an assistant pro at Winged Foot, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Four players were locked at 144. They were Bob Toski, the skinny leading money winner from Livingston, N. J.; South Africa's Bobby Locke; Tommy Bolt and amateur Dick Chapman, whose 67 and hole-in-one were highlights of the day.

Al Nelson

Nelson Shoots 73 In Second Round Of Open

Springfield, N. J. — Al Nelson, youthful Shawnee-on-Delaware assistant pro, thrilled his following from Monroe County, Pa., yesterday by shooting a sizzling 73 in the second round of the National Open here at Baltusrol.

Nelson, who opened with a high 87 on Thursday, was forced out of the tournament following yesterday's three-over par performance. Al's brilliant second day comeback enabled him to finish with a 160. All those over 154 were eliminated yesterday.

Best Round
Nelson could card no better than 81 at Baltusrol and this came in Wednesday's final tuneup round.

The Shawnee entry drove over the 183-yard par three fourth hole and needed a chip shot and two putts to get down to break his streak of par golf. He came up with a six on the par four 15th. Al had one more boggie, but erased that with a birdie. Nelson was straight down the middle with his drives and his second shots were "dead on the pin."

Art Wall, Pocono Manor's tournament pro, also bowed out of the tournament yesterday after blowing to an 81, after shooting a 78 on opening day. Wall finished with a total of 162 strokes.

Tobyhanna Meets Moscow

Tobyhanna—Tobyhanna A. C., an entry in the Pocono Mountains Association, will tangle with Moscow here on the Coolbaugh High field tomorrow.

The baseball rivals are slated to get their contest underway at 2 p.m.

Kolodzey Back
Manager Frank "Candy" Dailey announced last night that the club has been greatly strengthened by the return of Stan "Lefty" Kolodzey. The hard hitting first baseman will play his first game of the season with Tobyhanna tomorrow.

Dailey also announced that Jack Dunning would do the pitching for the home team.

Tobyhanna dropped its first four outings of the current campaign bout, bounced into the win column for the first time last Sunday with an 11-10 verdict over Maple Lake.

Bosox Ink Youngster
Holland, Mich. (AP)—Bob Van Dyke, third baseman who hit .417 for Holland High school this spring yesterday signed a minor league contract with the Boston Red Sox. He will report to Corning, N. Y., in the Pony League next season.

New Softball Times Listed

Team and league officials announced a new schedule for the Monroe County Softball League last night, following a circuit meeting at the home of Jack Mullins, 514 Brown St., Stroudsburg.

Economy
It was agreed that all twilight games slated for Stroudsburg Playground would begin at 6:45 and not a minute after 7 p.m.

This will allow all Gordon Giffels field games to begin at approximately 8:15 or 8:30 p.m. The move will enable half of the Giffels field game to be played in twilight and the other half under the lights.

The new move was taken in an effort to cut down on mounting expenses caused by the introduction of night softball to the area.

Youth Wins University Scholarship

JAMES L. KILLGORE of Phillips St., Stroudsburg, son of the late J. E. Reese Killgore, has been informed of receiving a scholarship to Susquehanna University in Selinsgrove.

The scholarship was determined as the result of a competitive test given on the university campus last April, in which some 48 students from several states participated. He is registered in the pre-theological curriculum.

James graduated early this month from Grove City High School in Grove City. During the year, he was active in many extracurricular events, including American Legion oratory, placing first in Grove City High School and second in Mercer County with his 12-minute oration on the Bill of Rights.

He received a three-day stay at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C., as a prize for this oration, with expenses paid by the Mercer County American Legion.

He was also a member of Mercer County's only Ground Observer Station, the bass soloist in a local octet that toured much of Pennsylvania in the past two years, and an active member of a Protestant Youth workshop formed by the youth in that area.

He is starting at Susquehanna in September, and is pre-enrolled in the Capital University Seminary in Columbus, Ohio.

School Health Examinations Paying Off

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Health Department reported yesterday that Pennsylvania's school health program is paying off in fewer illnesses and defects among children.

Only 34 per cent of the 1,876,821 youngsters examined in public, private and parochial schools during the 1952-53 school year were found to have remediable defects, said John W. German Jr., chief of the department's school division.

He compared that with the 50 per cent of children examined and found to have physical defects back in 1946-47, first year of the compulsory statewide physical examination program.

HE ATTRIBUTED the study decline of defects to the work of school nurses and parents in following up on the physical examinations to have the children's defects remedied.

Another factor, German said, is the prompt attention given to children who submit to physical examinations before they enter school. The youngsters, with their parents' consent, may be given a complete physical checkup as long POCONO LAKE — A Wilkes-Barre truck driver will be charged with reckless driving by Mount Pocono State police following an accident on Route 940 near here which resulted in about $1350 damages.

State police identified the driver as Robert Nols, 43. His truck crashed into a utility pole of the PP&L Co. here at 3:30 a. m. yesterday. There was no service interruption, a PP&L spokesman said.

Police said the truck was damaged about $900 and property about $450. Nols told police the steering mechanism locked as he rounded a curve and the truck went out of control.

Nols was taken to the Mount Pocono office of Dr. E. O. Headrick and treated for cuts and bruises of the forehead and right leg. The charge was filed with Justice of the Peace Ralph Dunlap here. No date was set for the hearing.

GOP Leaders Meet To Name New Chairman

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Republican "harmony" group of state leaders yesterday slated Edward W. P. Harris, a Philadelphia ward leader and state employee, to be GOP state committee treasurer, succeeding former Philadelphia City Chairman William J. Hamilton.

The group, meeting on the eve of today's state committee reorganization session, held a brief session at which the complete slate of state committee officers was picked. Included are:

Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst of Lebanon to succeed State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor as state chairman; Mrs. Sara H. Leffler of Lebanon to be re-elected vice chairman; Harris as treasurer; Mrs. Isabella Jones of Pittsburgh, re-elected secretary; and Mrs. Mitchell McCarthy of Altoona, assistant secretary.

THOSE attending the harmony session included National Committeewoman Kathryn Murdock of Greensburg; National Committeeman G. Mason Owlett of Tioga County; Taylor and Gov. John S. Fine.

Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, GOP gubernatorial candidate and Horst were delayed enroute from Clearfield where they have been attending a community observance.

Meanwhile, conversation in the crowded hotel lobby centered around two unresolved questions: what is to be done with the more than 91 thousand dollars in contributions collected before the May 18 primary, and who will be appointed by the new state chairman as the finance chairman for the November campaign.
